Sixteenth Sunday of Ordinary Time

The Story and You

What kind of person sneaks into a neighbor's field and plants weeds? It's a shocking example of the evil of which humans are capable. My dad told similar stories about the "dairy wars" during the Depression, when rival dairies would follow the delivery carts and place worms in the milk just delivered to the homes of Denver's wealthy. My grandfather's dairy lost its account with Molly Brown in just this way.

In the movies it's easy to see into the hearts of those who do such obviously evil things. The bad guys know they are bad guys, and they tell themselves stories about imagined crimes against them in order to psych themselves up for the bank robbery or the murder for hire.

What kinds of stories do people tell themselves as they are breaking into someone's home, or stealing the life savings of the elderly? If they were willing to dig deep they'd admit that someone has something they want, and the collateral damage that comes from obtaining it is, well, unfortunate.

They never admit that, of course. Even virtuous people will invent utterly transparent reasons to justify selfishness. If we could see that one truth—that each of us is capable, at times, of behavior that puts us squarely in the "bad guy" column—what grace that would be. Imagine what this world would look like if the humans planting weeds in fields just stopped and said, "Wait. What am I doing?"

We are all working to become, more and more, the fruitful field planted at our baptism. We trust that the Divine Harvester (using Dag Hammarskjöld's image), will keep the grain and, with a breath of kindness, blow the rest away.

How is the fruitfulness of your life overcoming some past selfishness?

Second Vatican Council Document on Education

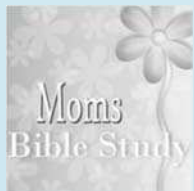

Among all educational instruments the school has a special importance. It is designed not only to develop with special care the intellectual faculties but also to form the ability to judge rightly, to hand on the cultural legacy of previous generations, to foster a sense of values, to prepare for professional life. Between pupils of different talents and backgrounds it promotes friendly relations and fosters a spirit of mutual understanding; and it establishes as it were a center whose work and progress must be shared together by families, teachers, associations of various types that foster cultural, civic, and religious life, as well as by civil society and the entire human community.

Beautiful indeed and of great importance is the vocation of all those who aid parents in fulfilling their duties and who, as representatives of the human community, undertake the task of education in schools. This vocation demands special qualities of mind and heart, very careful preparation, and continuing readiness to renew and to adapt. --Gravissimum Educationis, Declaration on Christian Education of the Second Vatican Council

Sharing the Gospel For Kids

As God's child, you are the wheat in God's field. As you love and trust God more, your faith will grow. You will see others around you who love God, too. God will be happy to see you growing up in God's love. As you grow taller and stronger, you will also notice others around you who ignore or hate God. God will get rid of those weeds. Then he will bring you into heaven.

Prayer

God, help my love and faith to grow strong.

Something to Draw

Draw a picture of wheat and weeds.

Mission for the Week

Help your parents in the garden. Watch how carefully weeds need to be pulled, so you don't pull up the good plants, too.
