Jesus said to the synagogue official, "Do not be afraid; just have faith." When they arrived at the house of the synagogue official, he caught sight of a commotion, people weeping and wailing loudly. So he went in and said to them, "Why this commotion and weeping? The child is not dead but asleep."

Thirteenth Sunday in Ordinary Time

Touch. That might be the most powerful thing we do in this world. The newborn, lovingly held and kissed and touched by mom and dad for the first few years of life, is developing neural pathways of confidence and security that will carry him for the rest of her life. I wonder why we can't remember those first years. Playing with my baby niece in the pool the other day, passing her from one adoring family member to the next, I had a flashback of my mom, holding my baby brother in a big towel while the rest of her confident brood splashed and swam laps in the pool. Marty would join us soon enough, but in that stage of life he needed nothing but the warmth of the sun, and the security of being held by mom. That's the core of what we all need, isn't it? Our Jesus knows that. Imagine that poor woman, "unclean" by every standard, so desperate for healing that she reached out to him just to touch his clothes. She'd been roughly treated by her many doctors, and their touch had only brought more pain. But merely touching the clothes of The Compassionate One healed her immediately.

Jesus could have healed Jairus's daughter with just a word. I think he traveled to her house because he knew that the whole family needed to be touched by him. And when we hear him say, "Do not be afraid; just have faith" we feel ourselves being touched by him, held by him, through the millennia, through the painful experiences of our lives, right through Mark's text. I just felt power go out from him. Did you?

In what ways do you feel the powerful touch of Jesus in your life?

Thank you for your generosity in helping educate and nurture the whole child at St. Clare in the image and likeness of God.

The school cannot be considered separately from other educational institutions and administered as an entity apart, but must be related to the world of politics, economy, culture and society as a whole. For her part the Catholic school must be firmly resolved to take the new cultural situation in her stride and, by her refusal to accept unquestioningly educational projects which are merely partial, be an example and stimulus for other educational institutions, in the forefront of ecclesial community's concern for education. In this way the Catholic school's public role is clearly perceived. It has not come into being as a private initiative, but as an expression of the reality of the Church, having by its very nature a public character. It fulfills a service of public usefulness and, although clearly and decidedly configured in the perspective of the Catholic faith, is not reserved to Catholics only, but is open to all those who appreciate and share its qualified educational project.

Sharing the Gospel for Kids

In today's Gospel reading, Jairus asked Jesus to come to his house. The daughter of Jairus was dying, and he knew Jesus could make her well again. While they were walking to his house, she died. Did Jesus give up? No way! Jesus told Jairus not to be afraid, but to keep believing that Jesus could help her. Jesus was even stronger than death. He walked into the house, held her hand, and told her to get up. Jesus admired the faith Jairus had.

Prayer

Dear God, you are even stronger than death. Help me to have faith in you like Jairus had. Amen.

Something to Draw

Draw a picture of Jesus and the daughter of Jairus holding hands.

Mission for the Week

Jairus knew that Jesus could help him. Write down three things that you are afraid of, and ask God to help you.
