

PENTECOST 2020

Come, oh Holy Spirit, come!
We feel You ever more, our own.
It's You who've sent the personnel
Who've risked their lives to get us well.
It's on You scientists alight
To give them wisdom in this fight.
And You, oh Spirit, whose cool breath
Companioned those we won't forget.
Those loved ones, left alone, it seemed.
But You, sweet Spirit, who redeemed
Those last sad moments, with Your grace,
When they met Jesus, face to face.
It's You, Oh Spirit, we received
On that day we first believed.
Please dwell in us, Spirit, once again.
We ask, in Jesus' name, AMEN.

In what ways can you sense the Holy Spirit working in the events of these past months?
